The German Social Accident Insurance Institution for the raw materials and chemical industry (BG RCI) was established on 1 January 2010. It was created by merging the institutions for statutory accident insurance and prevention for mining, the chemical industry, leather industry, paper making, quarrying and sugar.

The BG RCI covers almost 31,000 companies with around 1.5 million insured employees. In the year under review, the BG RCI paid benefits amounting to more than EUR 1 billion.

We take responsibility for you!

Institutions for statutory accident insurance and prevention are part of the social network. The contributions are made solely by the companies, but we assume employers' liability under private law for occupational accidents, commuting accidents and occupational diseases in the event of loss or damage (discharging of liability).

Everything from a single source

As an industrial institution for statutory accident insurance and prevention, our statutory duty is to prevent occupational accidents, occupational diseases and work-related health risks. We provide comprehensive assistance to companies in all occupational safety matters, train insured employees, investigate causes of accidents and test technical equipment.

We provide insured employees with comprehensive and expert support following an occupational accident or disease. We take all measures necessary to ensure medical, social or occupational rehabilitation for insured employees. This all follows the principle of "everything from a single source".
